2019 Annual Contract Fillers Guide

2019 Directory of Contract Fillers

Annual reference for identifying contract filling partners for aerosol products

The past year has been a positive one for the contract filler industry, with a plethora of plant openings and expansions, mergers and acquisitions, and new hires and promotions.

For a more detailed look at what fillers have been up to in 2018, turn to p. 17 for our featured Fillers Report.

Filler Comments

Below are comments provided by aerosol fillers from around the world, expanding on the year behind us and expectations for 2019. Want to add your voice? Comments are solicited in our annual Fillers Directory questionnaire—be sure to send yours in next year and help illustrate the picture of contract filling worldwide.

We are optimistic about 2019. The regulatory landscape will witness some major changes where brand owners will rely more on Contract Development & Manufacturing Organization (CDMO) partners to address research and development (R&D), regulatory and innovation. CDMOs with strong infrastructure, quality programs and customer service will excel in 2019–2020; we hope to take advantage of this brilliant opportunity. –U.S. Midwest

[We] expect a tightening of [the] supply chain for several raw materials, resulting from global trade negotiations and China's Blue Sky Initiative. –U.S. Southeast

We believe that flexibility, low minimum order quantities (MOQs), unique products [and] prompt production are the key factors in this competitive market. –Hungary

Yes, 2018 was a good year for fillers. –U.S. Midwest

[The year] 2018 brought growth at a rate of 10%. Our greatest challenge will be maintaining our production lead times while continuing to grow. We are optimistic about our growth potential for 2019. –U.S. Southeast

[The year] 2018 was an incredible year for [us]. We opened a new 270,000 sq ft manufacturing facility…and enjoyed double digit growth for us and our customers. –U.S. Midwest

[The year] 2018 was an excellent year for contract filling. It was a year of identifying solutions to an ever-changing industry and fulfilling our clients' needs in the market. –U.S. Southeast
